

Dogstudio is an award-winning digital agency founded in 2006 and now employing 14 full-time passionate and talented people.

The company is proficient in high-end interactive experiences including complex and usable portals, exciting websites, clever branding and illustrations, web development and motion design. For the past 7 years, Dogstudio dedicated itself to put quality over quantity and pushing the boundaries of digital creations. Their good reputation is driven by their creativity and their constant willingness to deliver the best experiences while staying true to their clients needs.

The company recently confirmed its international opening and already managed great projects for the European Commission, Standard de Liège, Lilly, Pfizer, Rossel advertising, Dupuis editions, etc.

These last years and because of these skills, Dogstudio has also been involved in a lot of successful cross-media campaigns for movies.
